

IMMORTAL GRANNY

Dear followers, what a Day! Have you ever been in a car with someone who isn't afraid of dying? That's what I did! I went in a car driven by my granny.

My granny is very religious, she goes to church every day, she prays before going to bed... all that stuff religious people do. So, I was in the car with her and she was going really fast. I told her to slow down. As usual she ignored me.

After a while we were on a road with lots of curves. I was scared, truly scared. I saw myself dead in the ditch. I told my granny to slow down again. However, she answered me with "If I die I go to heaven, it doesn't matter". I looked at her while mentally shouting "It matters 'cause I'm in the car!!". Don't worry, we're good, we're alive. Luckily the road was empty.

After that day I promised to myself that I would never get in a car with my granny again. I also think differently of my granny now, I think that If I were shot six times in the chest in front of her, she wouldn't call the police, she would kneel in front of my body while saying "God please take these bullets out of my sweet little girl. Oh lord, please help her!". Which would lead to my death.

In conclusion, never go alone with someone like my granny, there's a huge risk of you ending up dead somewhere.
